

THE CHRISTMAS SHOPPING WEEKEND AT ORLEANS HOUSE GALLERY Nov 29 & 30, 12.30-6pm FREE ADMISSION

Due to the huge success of last year's Luxury Christmas Fair, our annual retail event at Orleans House Gallery will this year take place across an entire weekend. With top designers, local makers, festive food and stylish things for your home; The Christmas Shopping Weekend at Orleans House Gallery could be the answer to all of your Christmas shopping worries. Here is just a small selection of the wonderful products you will find on sale across the weekend...

Jen Rowland works from her studio in Deptford, South London, where she screen prints vintage and hand-drawn illustrations onto beautiful natural fabrics for her range of lampshades, cushions and bolsters. She also designs a growing range of stationery, including notebooks, notelet sets and greetings cards. By layering vintage illustrations with her own abstract botanical drawings, Jen gives 'florals' a new unisex appeal.

Jo Edwards designs have fast become the by-word for well-designed, well-finished and stylish accessories and have become a noticeable feature in many high-end gift, fashion & lifestyle shops over the years. Their distinctive range of scarves made from wool/silk, fine wool, cashmere, linen & cotton stand apart from the competition in terms of quality, style and affordability.

All of Folding Maps' beautiful travelling maps are made individually in their Buckinghamshire workshop, where they are printed with pigment ink, on to archival paper, laid on to cloth. Along with their slipcases, they are all made by hand. They are light fast and fade resistant and the marble papers that are used are reproduced directly from original papers in their collection.

Clockwork Soldier's products are lovingly inspired by nostalgia with a healthy twist of original product development and a charming sense of style. The brands core values are based on wholesome family values with a "make and do" ethos that are reminiscent of simpler times. Their fresh and creative take on gifts, games and curiosities will amaze children and adults alike.

Bianca Marton's wonderful, handmade chocolate truffles are created from entirely natural ingredients and are 100% animal product free. A real luxury indulgence, these vegan truffles are amazingly delicious, velvety smooth and rich.

Helen Minns' classic, contemporary homewares are inspired by British wildlife and the countryside. Her range includes linen cushions and light shades, fine art prints, greeting cards and fine bone china mugs.

Beautifully fragranced and designed, Rowanberry's bespoke bath products are a delight for the senses. With a range of handmade soaps, scrubs, lotions and fizz's it is hard to know if the evocative scents or gorgeous packing are more irresistible.

Skoura Home source beautiful, unique and elegant gifts and homeware directly from Morocco. Their range includes brightly coloured ceramics, vibrant glassware and delicate soft furnishings.

London Kills Me comprises of design partnership Nick Darrieulat and Jane Young. Taking inspiration from the urban landscape and London History, they create screen prints, illustrations and textiles.

Last Try Wines is a dynamic independent based in Twickenham. They aim to offer individual and different wines, therefore, very few of their products will be found in the supermarket and larger chains. They take huge care over the selection process to bring you an interesting and diverse range at sensible prices.

...and there is so much more

Across the course of the weekend there will be a host of activities for the whole family, including children's art activities, festive music and mulled wine for the grown ups. Our gallery café will be open; offering delicious festive fare and warming drinks to enjoy alongside our wonderful 'Panufnik's Twickenham' and 'Lacemakers' exhibitions in our Main and Stables galleries. Browse, buy, dine or simply wander in the stunning grounds around our Grade I Listed Octagon room; The Christmas Shopping Weekend at Orleans House Gallery is the festive event not to be missed.
